

WHAT ARE THE RISKS?

Small children are most at risk from the dangers of lead-based paint. Lead dust can cause problems, especially for young children and babies. Lead dust can stick to children's hands and toys, and can be brought into the home from porches and soil from around the home. Lead dust is hard to see and is most commonly found on window sills and floor surfaces.

EXPOSURE TO LEAD CAN CAUSE:

- ◆ Behavioral problems
- ◆ Damage to the body's vital organs
- ◆ Learning problems
- ◆ Problems with speech & language

LEAD-BASED PAINT CAN BE FOUND IN:

Windows & Doors

Siding & Trim

Porches & Railing

THE FACTS ABOUT LEAD

If your home was built before 1978, it could contain lead-based paint. According to the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development (HUD), 24 million homes in the United States have peeling or chipping lead-based paint or high levels of lead dust. The older your home, the greater the chances of having a lead-based paint hazard.
